THE BODYBUILDER

Creation

The night air was crisp and clear. Out in the woods, away from the light of the city, the sky blazed with stars. Amazingly, some of these “stars” were, in fact, galaxies, containing millions of stars themselves. Before long, the stars started to disappear as a faint hint of light began to grow in the east as the sun peeked over the horizon. Before long, a light mist rose from the trees as the frost from the night before began to melt at the gentle urge of the first morning sun. Birds of all kinds erupted in song (some songs more melodic than others!) and the quiet woods of just a few minutes ago suddenly seemed full of life and noise.

All this brought to mind David’s words in Psalm 19:1, “The heavens are telling of the glory of God; and their expanse is declaring the work of His hands.” On the one hand, I was amazed (again) as I thought about God’s creativity and greatness as revealed in His creation. On the other hand, I thought about how often I look at the world around me without seeing God at work.

My challenge for me – and for you – is to push away the manmade and to set aside the busyness of life from time to time and renew my wonder about what God has done. And as I see His greatness again, I want to renew my commitment to serving Him. After all, we are part of His creation we can tell of the glory of God!
